

Robert Half Honoured by Forbes for Empowering Women in the Workplace

TORONTO, Nov. 1, 2024 /CNW/ - Global talent solutions and business consulting firm Robert Half has been named one of Forbes' World's Top Companies for Women 2024. This prestigious accolade highlights Robert Half's commitment to creating an inclusive workplace where women can achieve professional success and build fulfilling careers.

Forbes' World's Top Companies for Women draws from insights gathered from more than 100,000 women across 37 countries. Its methodology includes three key metrics: women's perceptions of their employers based on gender-specific criteria, public sentiment surrounding gender equity and an analysis of female representation in leadership roles.

"This recognition underscores our commitment to fostering an inclusive workplace where women can thrive," said MKeith Waddell, president and chief executive officer of Robert Half. "From offering comprehensive benefits that address personal needs to creating a culture of belonging, we're dedicated to empowering women to achieve their fullest potential, both professionally and personally."

Robert Half is committed to continually enhancing its resources for women, and its Global Women's Employee Network (GWEN) creates opportunities for connection and professional development for women within Robert Half worldwide.

"Our investment in women's success is reflected in the comprehensive programs and benefits we offer to our employees across the globe," said JoLynn Conway-James, senior executive director and chief administrative officer at Robert Half. "Whether it's leadership development programs, mentorship opportunities, or enhanced benefits that support new mothers returning to work, we're committed to providing the resources women need to build rewarding, long-term careers at Robert Half."
